There are luxury haciendas and then there is CHABLÉ, above everything else.

I have had the honour and pleasure to visit the outstanding newborn Chablé Resort and Spa which left me in total bewilderment with its charm, beauty and class. Your stay there becomes more like a shamanic retreat where you can't help but regenerate and reconnect with your true self. Peace, tranquillity, comfort are just the beginning of your life changing experience, almost surreal. The stunning 38 casitas and 2 extensive villas conserve part of the historical buildings of the old hacienda, combined with the most modern and finest pieces of Mexican furniture and art, each one surrounded by a lush vegetation for your privacy and a full connection with mother nature. The restaurants are run by the world class Mexican chef Jorge Vallejo, recently awarded #22 in the world. The spa is a unique world of holistic healing combining the old mayan tradition with modern techniques and the finest natural products. And in perfect line with everything else is the exceptional service brought by the genuine and warm-hearted spirit and hospitality of the Yucatan people. Overall a truly mystical experience that will touch your heart for life.

What's the reason why I have started to write about the Haciendas? They are my favourite kind of accommodation in Mexico, merging luxury with the charm of history and culture. They speak about a country and people and show you their culture and traditions. Besides, they are immerse in Nature and they are the perfect place to rigenerate your mind and spirit.

If you wish to know about the origin of the Haciendas you can read this post
